THE FEELING IN WASHINGTON. Special Dispatch to The N. Y. Tribune. WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Oct. 9, 1866. The Soldiers' and Sailors' organization of this city assembled in the Fair building to learn the results of the several elections, and while awaiting the returns were addressed by Col. Breeden of New-Mexico, Capt. Thomas of Iowa, Col. Hinton of Kansas, and Major Morse of New-York. A band of music was in attendance, and the scene was indicative of the great interest taken in the contest. The reading of each dispatch induced prolonged cheers, and long after 2 o'clock the building was thronged by persons eager for news from the election.

HOW THE COPPERHEADS RECEIVED THE NEWS. The Democrats and Copper-Johnson men met at the headquarters of the National Union Young Men's Club to condole over the mournful intelligence mo-mentarily announced. The elite of the party were entertained up stairs, and from the indications presented in the unsettled condition of those who came below to read the news to the great unwashed, they below to reas. the news to the great anasoca, the certainly indulged abundantly with the spirits to gather nerve to discharge this melancholy duty. These rooms were closed about 11½ o'clock, the enthusiasm of departmental "my policy" men having ebbed out quite early in the evening.
